AAC MinMix

Ration-specific mineral mixtures

Complete feed forms the foundation for high and efficient milk production in modern dairy farming.

The need for mineral supplementation in the total feed ration varies from farm to farm and depends on the raw materials used in each individual herd.

Therefore, it is necessary to develop an individual mineral mixture that meets the needs of each farm.

More than just a mineral mixture

At Allaboutcows, we believe that knowledge makes a difference. This approach is incorporated into AAC MinMix.

We have many years of experience in advisory services, both in breeding, feeding and management, and particularly in minerals.

All these aspects are important when looking at the overall picture and developing a mineral mixture for each individual farm.

Giving you many possibilities

Based on the goals we define together, there are many possibilities for creating a mineral mixture that helps you achieve your production targets.

We can produce a cost-effective mineral mixture and have the option of using various additives if we jointly find them necessary.

We work with the right suppliers to provide good-quality products at the right price.
